Safety and Training

Slips, trips, and falls are among the most common hazards in the workplace.

They put many workers at risk of sprains, strains, cuts, bruises, fractures, and other injuries. The below was reviewed in December with employees. With training and safety practices, we can help prevent and keep personnel safe from these hazards.

1. Eliminate Hazards (Housekeeping)

Good housekeeping is the first line of defense. If a hazard isn't there, an accident can't happen.

- Clean up spills immediately
- Clear the path
- Manage cords:

2. Maintain the Environment

The physical state of a building significantly affects traction and stability.

- Ensure adequate lighting
- Secure floor surfaces
- Mark changes in elevation

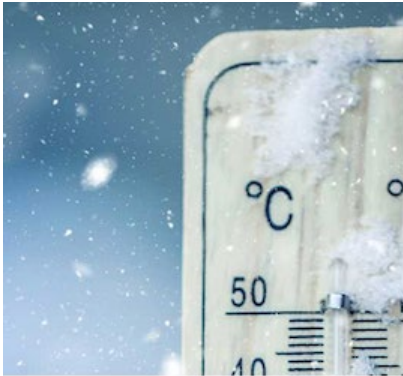

3. Safe Movement & Behavior

How you move is just as important as where you move.

- Don't rush
- Stay focused
- Use handrails
- Don't obstruct your view

4. Proper Equipment & Gear

- Wear the right shoes
- Use ladders correctly
- Weather awareness
